Independence and Optimisation

Nielsen & Christensen is a dynamic, medium-sized Danish audit firm with strong embedding in Northern Jutland as well as in the Greater Copenhagen Area. Our history began as early as the early 1950s, and the enterprise today has a significant and strong position on the market.

Based on strategically and geographically well-located offices in Copenhagen, Aalborg and Aars, respectively, as well as on our membership of Praxity, we are able to act efficiently and quickly, locally, nationally and internationally.

The core competences of our more than 140 employees are audit, accounting, tax and advisory services. We all work with constant focus on optimising our customers' individual and financial objectives.

We commit to all assignments and customers with personal insight and understanding, and our advisory services are independent of other interests than those of our customers and their needs.

Commitment and Development

Nielsen & Christensen wishes to be known for and recognised by high professionalism, flexibility and efficient work efforts. We focus on development and education of each employee, and we all contribute independently and with commitment to creating added value for our customers.

In order to be able to provide efficient and nuanced assistance and advisory services at the highest level, we work on a daily basis on concepts such as knowledge-sharing, learning and constructive cooperation.

Modern management and attractive staff policy ensure a physically and mentally well-functioning working environment – and at the same time, we avail ourselves of some of the most efficient and updated IT tools. In our own “Nielsen & Christensen Akademi” (“Nielsen & Christensen Academy”), we continuously develop the competences of each employee.

Services and Quality

Nielsen & Christensen offers competent advisory services as well as a wide selection of basic services, the purpose of which is to optimise our customers' finances as well as ensuring that there is focus on future objectives.

Our core services are audit and accounting assistance, and the advisory services especially relate to tax and financial matters as well as matters of corporate law.

We give high priority to our independence and are absolutely free of financial interests in the results of our advisory services – the only things we are interested in are our customers' objectives and success. Each employee is a part of a team with a partner responsible. This – in combination with our internal quality assurance system - ensures that all assignments are performed at a high qualitative level.

Flexibility and Cooperation

Having more than 140 well-educated employees, Nielsen & Christensen is always capable of gathering a unique team with the exact skills and professional expertise required for a specific assignment.

This flexibility makes it possible for us to work efficiently for large as well as small enterprises within more or less all businesses. Our customers include, among others, listed and other financial enterprises, the professions as well as institutions and organisations within the public and private sectors.

At Nielsen & Christensen, we want to offer the widest possible selection of competences and services. Accordingly, we cooperate with RGD (RevisorGruppen Danmark), an association of independent audit firms that focuses on high professional development via a wide and updated supply of training and educational activities.

Industry, trade and crafts, Professions, Retail and wholesale, Property developers, Property companies, Associations/institutions, Funds, Schools, Health care, Banks/insurance companies, Construction industry, Cooperative housing, societies, Agriculture/forestry, Hotel and restaurant

Width and Competences

The State-Authorised Public Accountants at Nielsen & Christensen are versatile in terms of education as well as in terms of daily practice. We all work at a high professional and ethical basis – the result of practical assignment handling, post-education and interdisciplinary cooperation combined with several years of experience.

Each auditor, in most cases, has specific knowledge of and focus on one or more specific professional areas and, accordingly, has developed a specialist knowledge and know-how of great use in specific customer segments.

Nielsen & Christensen has a competent and well-documented specialist department within tax advisory. The department employs five highly qualified employees with legal and financial education as well as specialist knowledge within tax, VAT and duties.

Concurrently, via our specially educated IT employees, we offer in-depth and independent advisory services about IT solutions to our customers, including purchase, operation and security.

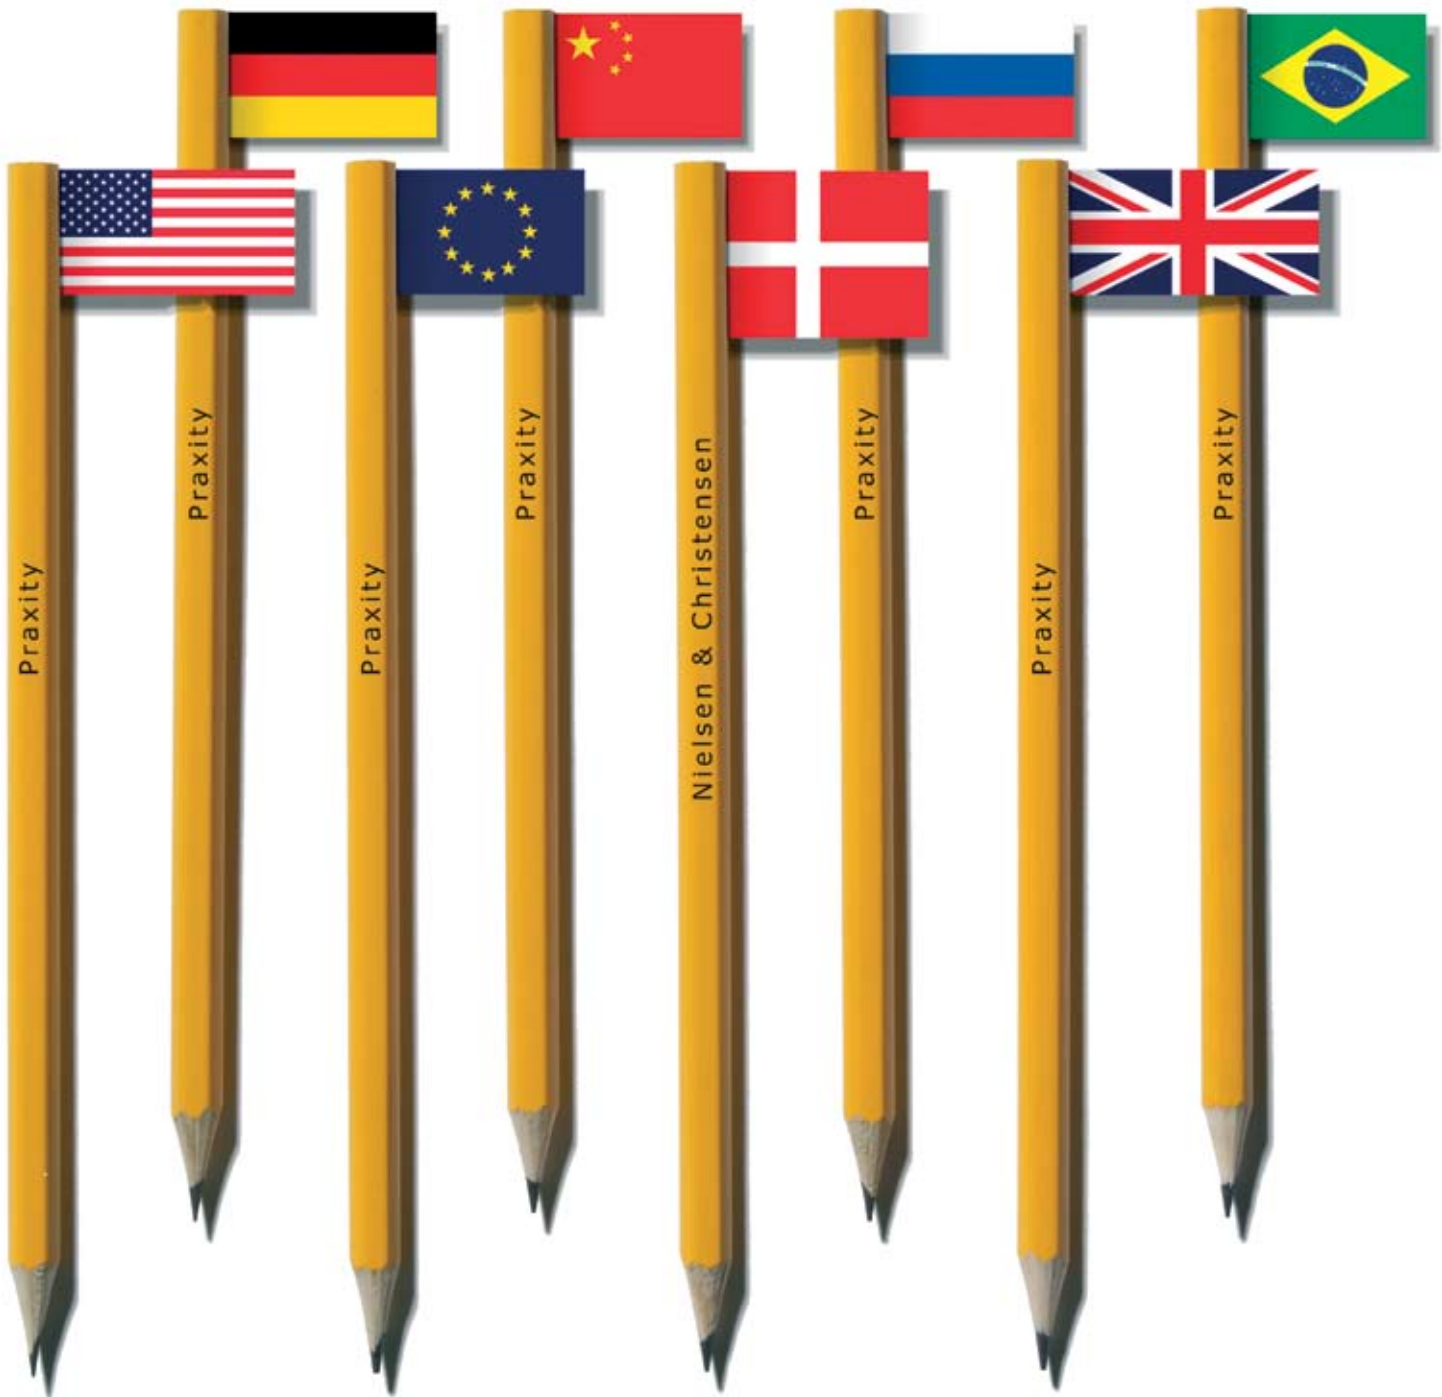

Audit, Accounting assistance, Preparation of financial statements, Financial management, Business development, Business plans, Establishment of financial reporting systems, Budgeting and calculation systems, Establishment of bookkeeping systems, Performance of mergers, Reconstruction and addition of capital, Management consultancy, Strategic planning, Structural planning, Investment advisory, Financing and subsidy schemes, Enterprise acquisition and sale, Pension and insurance analyses, Succession process advisory, Tax advisory, IT advisory, Assessment of IT security

Worldwide with Praxity

Nielsen & Christensen assists our customers internationally with advisory services and solutions at a high professional level. We are an active partner of Praxity, a strong cooperation between professional and independent audit firms worldwide.

The cooperation with Praxity ensures that we are always in contact with a wide selection of skilled auditors internationally - and are thereby always capable of providing fast and correct assistance to our customers in relation to local national rules and provisions.
